

REPORT ON ONLINE COMBINED SOCIETY ORIENTATION SESSION FOR THE FIRST YEAR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS OF THE BATCH 2022-2023

Event: Online Combined Societies Orientation Session '22

Date: 12th and 13th November, 2022

Time: 10:00 AM onwards

On the 12th and 13th of November 2022, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell of Sri Guru Gobind Singh College of Commerce, University of Delhi, organized an online combined society orientation session for the recently admitted undergraduate students on a Zoom meeting that was also streamed on their official YouTube channel. The session started with The President and Vice President of the IQAC giving a brief introduction to the illustrious institution. Walking around the college campus, Gurkirat Singh, The President of the IQAC, acquainted the students with the history of the college and how it emerged from humble beginnings. He talked about how the institution has had a phenomenal journey in the 38+ years, winning countless accolades and achievements guided by the motto "Behold All Human Race as One".

The esteemed Principal, Dr. Jatinder Bir Singh, then offered some words of advice. He spoke about the significance of societies and extracurricular activities for students and the paramount importance the institution gives to the growth and development of students through these activities. He also urged students to join different clubs to develop their talents in a variety of fields and encouraged them to find what fascinates them the most.

The introduction of the various college societies then got underway, detailing their operations and functioning. The societies also displayed a number of their own events and activities. During the society introduction session, the members shared advice with the newly accepted students and urged them to join their organizations. To conclude the two-day session, the students took part in an interactive doubt session with members of various societies. The first-year students had a really positive reaction to the session as it helped them determine which societies they wanted to be a part of.

SESSION MOTIVES:

- To close the social divide between students and society.
- To introduce the various groups, clubs, and cells that students can join to further their interests.
- To familiarize pupils with collegiate culture.
- To inform the students on how to strive toward their career goals. to engage new students, provide them the opportunity to learn about the process of career development, and help them improve their abilities.
- Making pupils aware of the numerous extracurricular and co-curricular activities benefits their overall growth.
 - To teach young students proper business conduct.
 - To inspire students to learn new skills and discover cutting-edge ways to advance their careers

